PASTOR'S REFLECTION FIFTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

Acts 14:21-27 | Revelation 21:1-5a | John 13:31-33a, 34-35

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Peace be with you! What is love? Love is often seen as a sentimental feeling, a fleeting emotion that sometimes fails to endure.

However, the Scriptures in the 5th Sunday of Easter present love as a powerful force, a call to action, and a commitment that reflects our relationship with God and each other.

In the first reading from Acts of the Apostles (14:21-27), we witness the profound impact of love in action. The apostle Paul and Barnabas returned to the communities they had established, sharing not only the gospel of Jesus Christ but also the experiences of trials they faced.

Love is not simply about comfort; it is also about perseverance. They encourage the believers to remain steadfast in their faith, demonstrating that love includes the commitment to support one another through challenges and to remain rooted in the teachings of Christ.

Love, in this context, is about building communities of faith that uplift and empower one another, even amid adversity.

The reading from Book of Revelation (21:1-5a) brings us to a vision of divine love's fulfillment. Here, the promise is made that God will dwell among us, wiping away every tear and making all things new.

This imagery speaks to the ultimate expression of love – God's desire to be in relationship with us. Love is creation restored, harmony restored. It is not merely about the absence of pain but an active and transformative presence that seeks to heal, renew, and bring joy.

In this passage, we see that love is the promise of hope and the assurance that God's eternal presence will bring us into a reality beyond our current understanding.

Finally, in the Gospel of John (13:31-33a, 34-35), Jesus redefines love not just as an emotion but as a commandment – a radical call to action. He instructs His disciples to love one another as He has loved them.

This love expresses itself in service, humility, and sacrifice. It is the type of love that seeks the good of others, prioritizes relationships, and embodies the essence of the Kingdom of God.

Jesus shows us that love must be tangible; it should be evident to all, a living testimony to our faith. The mark of a true disciple is not doctrinal correctness but the intensity and authenticity of love shared within the community.

So, what is love? It is the active, purposeful commitment to seek the well-being of others, grounded in the grace of God. It is love that perseveres through trials, is foundational to our hope, and is evidenced in our actions towards one another.

As we reflect on these readings this weekend, let us ask ourselves: How do we embody this divine love in our lives? How do we share it in our families, communities, and the wider world? May we strive, empowered by the Holy Spirit, to be vessels of love in all that we do.

In this Easter season, let us allow God's love to transform our hearts so that we, in turn, might transform the world around us. Amen.

OUR LADY OF LA SALETTE, RECONCILER OF SINNERS, pray without ceasing for us who have recourse to you.

STEWARDSHIP OF TREASURE

STEWARDSHIP CORNER

THEME: LOVE AND STEWARDSHIP AS A WAY OF LIFE

Dear Faithful Stewards of Saint Joseph's, Peace! In our journey of faith, we often reflect on the teachings of Christ and how they shape our lives. One of the most profound teachings comes from the gospel of John 13:31-35, where Jesus emphasizes the commandment to love. In this passage, He speaks to His disciples about the importance of love in the context of community and stewardship.

"A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another." (John 13:34-35)

The Foundation of Stewardship: LOVE

At the heart of stewardship is love. When we think of stewardship, we often associate it with the management of our resources—time, talents, and treasures. However, the foundation of all stewardship must be rooted in love. Jesus calls us to love one another as He loves us. This love is selfless, sacrificial, and unconditional.

When we adopt a lifestyle of stewardship, we are essentially responding to this divine commandment. Our actions—whether in our homes, our churches, or our communities—should be a reflection of Christ's love. How we choose to use our resources should demonstrate care for others and an investment in their well-being.

Loving Through Stewardship

Stewardship goes beyond merely managing what we have; it's also about how we love others through our stewardship. Consider:

1. Sharing Resources:

Just as Christ shared everything with us, we are called to share our blessings with those in need. This can involve financial support, volunteering our time, or offering our talents to uplift those around us.

2. Community Building:

Stewardship in love means actively engaging in our communities. It invites us to invest in relationships, foster connections, and cultivate a spirit of unity. When we love one another, we strengthen the fabric of our community.

3. Caring for Creation:

Our stewardship extends to caring for the environment. Treating creation with respect and responsibility is another way to demonstrate love—both for God, the Creator, and for our fellow human beings who depend on it.

Love as a Witness

Jesus tells us that our love for one another will be the distinguishing mark of His disciples. In a world where division and hostility can often reign, let us remember that our greatest witness is our capacity to love. When we embrace stewardship as a way of life, we invite others to see the transformative power of Christ's love at work within us.

A Call to Action

As we reflect on this teaching from John 13, let us commit ourselves to embody love in all areas of our stewardship. Take time to consider how you can demonstrate love through your resources this week. Ask yourself:

- Who can I partner with to make a positive impact in our community?
- Where can I give my time or talents to serve others?
- How can I foster a spirit of love and unity in my relationships?

Let us strive to be known by our love, creating a ripple effect of grace and kindness that points others to Christ.

In Christ's Service,
Fr. Eric Castro, MS

NOTES FROM THE NURSE

Spring Into Healthy Habits!

Create a Balanced Plate

Involve the family to make a colorful, balanced plate at every meal. Incorporate fruits and vegetables which are packed with vitamins to support immune health and energy.

Encourage Restful Sleep

Set a consistent bedtime routine to ensure your child gets enough sleep. Kids need 9-11 hours of sleep each night for healthy growth and brain development. Make the bedroom a relaxing space—dim the lights, limit screen time before bed, and consider a calming bedtime story.

Family Fitness Fun

Go for a hike, play catch at the beach – make physical activity a fun family event! It not only strengthens the body, but also builds teamwork and emotional connection.

Embrace Outdoor Play

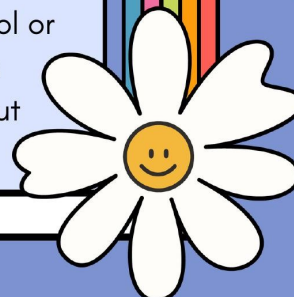

Hawaii's beautiful weather is a perfect invitation to get outdoors! Encourage your child to spend at least 30 minutes each day outdoors—whether it's riding a bike, going for a walk, or playing in the park. Nature and fresh air can help boost mood, enhance physical health, and improve focus for schoolwork.

Hydration is Key

Add slices of oranges or limes to your water for a tasty twist. Staying hydrated supports concentration, energy, and overall well-being.

Promote Acts of Kindness

Teach your child about the power of kindness, both to others and when they speak to themselves. Whether it's helping a friend at school or saying something nice to themselves in the mirror, kindness fosters positive mental health. When children feel good about themselves, they are more likely to spread joy to others.
